ST. LOUIS GREAT PEANUT MARKET.

Local Wholesalers Supply the Entire West With Popu-'ar Nut.

CROP OF GOOD QUALITY.

More Than 500,000 Sacks Are Received Here Each Year From Fields of Tennessee and Virginia.

The peanut, the largest selling and the most popular edible nut in St. Louis and the surrounding country, is being received in this city in large quantities. Hundreds of the large bags are arriving daily, both by land and water routes.

in the West for peanuts. Between four and five hundred thousand of the large sacks, each weighing more than 100 pounds. are handled annually by St. Louis wholesale nut merchants. The majority of the peanuts finding

St. Louis is the largest distributing point their way to St. Louis are grown in Tennessee, on the banks of the river bearing the name of that State. The peanut harvest in that State is now in full blast. It is estimated that 300,000 bags are grown there every year. These all come to St. Louis. A larger quantity of the nuts have been raised in Tennessee this year than ever before.

The peanut crop in Tennessee is not sufficient to supply the demand in St. Louis. Because of this thousands of bags are shipped from Virginia, the chief peanutraising State in the Union. The peanut crop this year is of very good SHIPMENT OF MILLIONS MAKES WALL STREET DULL.

BANKERS CONSERVATIVE AFTER ST. LOIUS EPISODE.

Increase in Loans Accounted For by the Needs for Disbursements To-Morrow.

New York, Oct. 31 -To-day's bank statement proved to be the usual enigma to stock-market observers. The statement reports a decrease in cash of $8,794,800. There are several estimates compiled every Friday of the week's currency from the bank officials themselves. Yesterday none of these estimates regarded as reliable sumption, with the exception of being roasted.

Peanuts are shelled by machinery. The shelled nut is extracted from the peanut which has a bad outside appearance. The meats, however, are of the same quality as the others.

Part of the pennuts which are consumed in St. Louis are roasted in the large coffee-roasting establishments.

St. Louis peanut dealers anticipate a larger demand for peanuts this year than ever before. During the World's Fair period double the ordinary amount will be consumed. Thousands of pounds of the shelled peanuts will be used in making peanut candy.

The peacan crop is also arriving in St. Louis. These nuts, which have almost as large a sale as peanuts, are grown in Texas. At one establishment, in this city in the information upon which the Friday estimates are based. To-day's statement failed to have convincing effect in stockshowed a cash outgo for the week of less mates are based. To-day's statement falled to have convincing effect in stock-market circles, and a very languid up-ward movement of prices resulted. This was partly due to the fact that a skepti-cal feeling was felt yesterday as to whethcar feeling was felt yesterday as to whether the formidable decrease in cash would be, in fact, reflected in to-day's bank statement. There is a belief that the discrepancies in the bank statement may be explained by cash operations between the banks and trust companies, which do not appear in the reports of currency movements.

INCREASE IN LOANS.

The increase in loans, which reached 34,450,000, was not unexpected, and is attributed to preparations for November settlements and to borrowings by Western institutions in connection with the large cash withdrawals. The closing was steady, but very dull, and with the advancing tendency checked. The tightening money market this week has had a repressive influence on the stock market and has had some effect also in checking the broadening tendency of the bond market, which had begun to reach notable proportions. Pollowing the bank and trust failures at Baltimore and Pittsburg last week came the news of a run on St. Louis trust companies by some classes of their depositors and the enforcement of the sixty-days' notice of withdrawals allowed to the trust companies. This condition led to large withdrawals of currency from New York to re-enforce the position at St. Louis. At the same time the heavy shipments to New Orleans for crop-moving purposes have continued and the long-delayed demand from the West for moving the grain crops has set in. On Wednesday the transfers of currency out of New York through the Eubtreasury reached the unprecedented total of £250,000, of which £1,00,000 was to St. Louis, which was also the highest record for a single day's shipments to any one point. The week's outgo also exceeds all records. The emergency shipments to St. Louis are believed to be a temporary need, although the increasing activity of the Western money markets may, keep the money there over the crop-moving period. $4.450,000, was not unexpected, and is attributed to preparations for November set-

CROP DEMANDS.

The development of the regular crop-noving demand has demonstrated that the season's needs for that purpose must be met from New York, as usual, and has disproved the expectation that Western resources would be sufficient to meet the requirements, which has been maintained in some quarters. The indulgence of that expectation last fall proved costly to a large speculative element in the stock market, and the memory of last fall's experiences begets a spirit of caution.

The spirit of distrust of banking institutions revealed by the St. Louis episode has induced a conservatism in the banking world in general and a disposition to conserve reserves. The effect of these factors has been a rise in the local rates for money, both on call and on time. But the further effect has been a precipitate break in the rates for foreign exchange to near the gold-import point, which has spread the pressure of the situation into foreign money market. Foreigners have been heavy buyers of cotton during the week, impressed with the fear of the formation of another corner in our cotton market. The outgo of whest and corn also has expanded. The rise in local money rates has changed the demand for exchange to cover previous sales, which has hitherto steadily absorbed the supply of commercial bills as fast as they came into the market. As the current demand for gold on the Continent is keen, the final outcome of the exchange situation is not certain, although it seems clear that the New York money market has secured control of the exchange situation, with power to secure relief by gold imports at need.

stocks and the railroad equipment stocks as a class have been affected by unimproved conditions in that trade and especially by the large decrease in net earnings for the last owarter reported by the Pressed-Steel Car Company. Railroad officials have come to admit, for the first time, some declining tendency in traffic, and freight solicitors are reported again in the field, after a long period of inactivity. Mercantile ogencies also report a cautious attitude on the part of merchants and a disinclination to order ahead. There has not resulted any marked depression in the stock market as a consequence of the stock market as a conse these developments. No urger these developments. No urrent liquida-tion has been in evidence, and the online is held that the long liquidation in the stock market has been in anticipation of present and possibly future conditions during the time when complaint was made that Wall street was the only blue spot in the country. The hope that the necessary liquidation in the stock market is over has checked operations for a further decline. LITTLE INVESTMENT.

LITTLE INVESTMENT.

There is no plain evidence that any investment demand for stocks has yet developed. Some complaint is heard of the manipulative character of occasional advances in prices. But this, if true, does not detract from their evidence of an improved speculative sentiment and of the cessation of pressure to liquidate, which defeated all manipulative efforts to advance prices for a long time. Many high grade, inactive stocks were sold down under forced liquidation of small lots, to prices which offered no indication of the value set upon them by investors or of the figure at which investors were willing to part with them, unless forced to do so by need of funds in hand. Some of the correspondingly wide recoveries in such stocks are hardly evidence of a renewed absorption for investment, but may represent a process of bidding up by market managers when unopposed by offers to sell, for the purpose of rectifying market quotations and improving the acceptability of securities as collateral. The rise in money rates has halted the investment absorption of bonds, but has caused little reaction in prices.

Bond houses report a good inquiry and an expectation that the falling off in business activity will lead to some accumulation of idle capital within a short time, and a demand for safe investment in mortgage securities. The purchase of some $25,000,000 of bonds of subsidiary companies of the Pennsylvania Company by bankers was the event of the week in the bond market, and regarded as evidence of the revived market for bonds. United States 2s advanced ¼ and the 3s and old 4s ¼ per cent over the closing call of last week.
